

Appendix 3

Sample Prize Game Board – Pre-reading Age Child

Below is a sample game board, intended for use with a youngster who can't yet read or count reliably. Most little kids have played on game boards so will recognize the overall idea. Design your own board in similar fashion, drawing or pasting simple pictures representing prize choices on the board to show how many tokens are required for each. Demonstrate placing one token on each step, beginning at "Start," to show how close to each reward you child has come. For example, on the sample board, it takes ten tokens to trade for ice cream. Also show your child that any extra tokens provides a start to the next reward choice.

